

Mutt Thomas wrote it down for his grandchildren

Editor's note: The following are the recollections of Glades pioneer C.A. "Mutt" Thomas, as written by Ruth S. Irvin. His story is being presented in serial form by permission of the Mutt Thomas family.

RITTA ISLAND

Jim Mabry and Jim O'Neal worked with Newman in making the state's surveys. They married William Cason's daughters Lucette and Gertrude. They first built a house on the west side of the island in 1909. Mrs. Van Horn remembers that she and her mother joined her father there in December 1911 after their stay in the Bolles Hotel. The Mabrys and the O'Neals soon had adjoining houses on the west side of the island on the land they had come to homestead.

The only other person living on the island at that time was an old man by the name of Andy who had been in many places and had many tales to tell. He had even lived in Alaska. He died alone in his shack in December of 1913, and was buried in his bed after his body was discovered.

Jim Mabry was lost from his boat in a storm and his wife Lucetta remained on the island. Her father and brother came over from the mainland to help her farm and prove up on her homestead. President Woodrow Wilson signed the deed to her land in 1919. Mrs. Van Horn still has the deed.

Mrs. Mabry was remarried to Gus McGahee who ran a boat, the "Roger", for the Southern Fish Company in Ft. Myers. He often carried passengers and Mrs. Mabry met him at the home of her mother in LaBelle one evening when he came to let a relative know when his boat was scheduled to leave the next morning.

Mrs. Van Horn's mother told her that Ritta

Island was named by a Fitzgerald family who came in the early days from up north and stayed on the mainland for a while. They had a daughter by the name of Ritta. They had also given the name "Ritta" to their boat. Ritta was applied to the island first then to the Miami Locks and Bolles Hotel location and later to Miss Maude's store and post office in the Little Bare Beach area.

Captain Felix Forbes built his two story hotel on the south side of the island a few years after the Mabrys and the O'Neals came and he and his brothers began to homestead and farm their land.

Mrs. Van Horn remembers that when Captain Forbes brought passengers after dark to his hotel to spend the night he flashed his lights - one flash for each guest. This was a signal for the cook to fly into action, let him know how many people would be eating and how much food to have ready when the boat pulled into the dock. This ritual was of great interest to the people who lived on the island, for boats were their only contact with the world outside and they took great interest in those who came and went.

Captain Felix had a vicious old turkey who would chase and attack Mrs. Van Horn when she was a little girl. One day he ran toward her and she picked up a stick, hit him over the head and laid him out cold. She thought she had killed him, but after awhile, much to her relief, he got up and walked away. After that the old turkey left her alone.

Mrs. Van Horn describes her life as a child, growing up on Ritta Island, as a very happy time.

City commission nixes beer sales

By JEFF BROWN
BELLE GLADE - The Black Gold Jubilee will be dry this year. At least from the standpoint of the Black Gold Jubilee Committee selling beer at the mid-April event.

The Belle Glade City Commission Monday night, February 14, voted unanimously against a request by the committee to allow it to seek a two-day permit to sell beer April 16 and 17.

The committee had narrowly voted February 4 to seek the permit. Only three of the five city commissioners had attended the meeting Monday night when the request was considered, but a memorandum from an absent Mayor Thomas L. Altman indicated he would have voted with the three who unanimously turned the request down. Commissioners George Goforth, Charles and Claude Tindall, who acted as mayor in Altman's absence. "I have mixed emotions being on the committee," said Goforth, who is also a member of the Black Gold Jubilee committee. "I'm very much against the sale of beer. Even though the beer is out there, we won't be encouraging it." Those attending the festival may still pro-

Lake level highest ever for winter

By JEFF BROWN

Lake Okechobee is at the highest level ever for February, and South Florida Water Management District officials expect it to continue rising.

The district staff held a strategy session Tuesday, with several individuals representing various interests affected by the district's policies, and outlined what steps it plans to take to control the lake level.

The high levels, the highest ever recorded for this time of year, present the district with a complete reversal of the problems experienced 12 months ago. The lake was seven feet lower due to a prolonged drought in February 1982, according to Joe Schweigart, a district representative.

The lake level is currently 17.64 feet. Maximum regulation level for this time of year is 16.89 feet.

Record low levels were being recorded a year ago. Now, record high levels are being set.

It looks right now like it will definitely go above 18 feet. It's almost hard to believe that we could go so far in this time," said Schweigart, adding "I'd rather have this type of problem to deal with than the drought condition because we can always get rid of extra water."

He said the district and United States Army

Corps of Engineers can deal with the high lake level efficiently by releasing more water through the Caloosahatchee River and, if necessary, through the St. Lucie estuaries.

The Corps is expected to release the volume of water it releases through the Caloosahatchee every day until it reaches the maximum volume permitted of about 9,000 cubic feet per second.

Schweigart said he expects the Corps to reach that level sometime this weekend.

He said if too large a volume of freshwater is released into the St. Lucie estuaries, it could be detrimental to the system. He said wildlife and agricultural areas could also be adversely impacted if the lake level rises too much.

The wildlife area is already experiencing the "same stress as in the early part of the wet season," said Schweigart.

He said the area is designated as a water conservation area and the district will use it for that.

"We have no apologies to make for putting water in it," he said. "That's what it's intended for, and that's what we intend to use it for. We try for least impact. You're gonna have some unhappy people. We try to be thick skinned and we're used to it."

The district is attempting to manage the lake in a manner that will have the least possible

City can't buy back-time

PAHOKEE - The City of Pahokee cannot buy back Mayor Duncan Padgett's retirement time from the state pension plan anymore because of a prior decision not to do so, according to Michael Stauder, the city attorney.

Stauder also told the city council last week that the city ordinance creating a pension for Padgett in 19's must still be repealed because it is illegal.

The ordinance, referred to as the "mayor's ordinance" by council members, was adopted in to give Padgett a full pension upon his retirement in 1980. His 1980 retirement came at the end of a 20 year career as mayor.

When he started with the city, the state pension plan didn't exist. When the city had the opportunity to purchase his back-time in the state pension plan in 1973, it decided not to do so, according to Stauder.

Upon his retirement, Padgett started to collect two pensions. One was based on the seven years he served as mayor under the state pension plan. The other, created by the 1979 "mayor's ordinance," gave him a pension for the years he served the city without the benefit of the state plan.

"Stauder told the council November 9, 1982, that the "mayor's ordinance" was illegal because state law prohibited the city from competing with the state pension plan.

The city council last fall asked Stauder to examine the "mayor's ordinance." He said it could require the city to provide partial pensions to the other elected officials upon retirement if they had served part of their time without benefit of the state plan. Padgett, City Clerk Betty McCoy and City Marshall Carmen Salvatore III both started in their positions prior to 1973 when the city went on the state pension plan.

Stauder told the council that he would try to seek an exception to the rule prohibiting the city from purchasing the mayor's back-time, but he wasn't optimistic. He also repeated his recommendation of last fall that the "mayor's ordinance" be repealed because it is illegal.

He said he wasn't sure if the back-time could still be purchased by the individual. Padgett was reinstated in the mayor's office in October 1981 after his successor, Norma Norman, resigned.

He was returned to the seat by the voters in May 1982, but he is still collecting his pensions.

THREE MEN WERE INJURED, Subdivision Saturday. Charges two of them critically, when are pending, according to this automobile entered the Belle Glade Police Officer canal at the entrance of Sugar Aurelio Rodriguez.

4 injured in two accidents

Two single-vehicle accidents on local highways late last week left four men injured, two of them critically.

Three men were injured Saturday afternoon, February 12, when the automobile they were in travelled off the road and entered a canal at about 2:23 p.m.

David Jones, 57, of 715 Trailer Park lot 18, was allegedly driving south on SR 715 at a high rate of speed when he lost control of his vehicle. The automobile went off the west side of the road.

Jones pulled the vehicle back on the road and travelled several miles before he came to rest in a canal on the north side of the Sugar Subdivision.

Jones and two passengers were injured.

Jones and Mack Clemons, lot ten in 715 Trailer Park, are both in St. Mary's vide their own beer or other drinks.

Goodlett said he didn't think the commission could approve the sale of beer at the jubilee and later refuse to permit the sale of beer at other public events.

"I think we'd be setting a precedent here that we can't live with," he said.

Black Gold Jubilee Committee Chairman Rupert "Bubba" Mock, Jr., said the committee's request was designed to use the prevalence of beer at the event as a money maker. He said the money could be used for the future development of the city marina, where the bulk of the jubilee's events are held.

"We try to give the people what it seems they want," he said.

"The consumption of beer is very prevalent. Unless we outlaw the drinking of beer out there, it's gonna be there," he said.

He said publicity the jubilee plans for a giant salad have received have already insured the event's success this year.

"Whether or not we sell beer is not going to make or break it," said Mock. "It's gonna be a great weekend. The committee could live with or without beer."

Although he was out of town, Altman sent a memorandum to the committee explaining his position on the issue.

"After much thought concerning the request, I am not in favor of this request," the memorandum stated.

The memorandum further stated that Altman's purpose wasn't to influence the vote of the commission in his absence, but to meet what he perceived as his "obligation" as mayor to address controversial issues.

PAHOKEE — In a page 7 story of the Herald-Observer last Thursday, February 10, it was erroneously reported that the city of Pahokee may be losing about $200 million in water revenues.

It should have read that the city may be losing about $200 thousand in water revenues. It was also reported that the city charged $2.26 per gallon of water. It charges $2.26 per thousand gallons of water.

Burglars rip-off Scouts

BELLE GLADE - A local Boy Scout troop is a little less prepared this year because of a burglary at a church without tents.

According to Belle Glade Police Department Detectives John

R. Carney and Jack R. Fulenwider, four tents were taken in a burglary at the United Methodist Church's Jamerson Hall, at 401 SW First Street.

Scoutmaster William Schoenfeld discovered the burglary shortly after 7 p.m. February 9.

The burglar or burglars apparently entered the hall through a rear door and removed the four tents valued at a total of $600.

Each of the three tents is valued at about $170.

The fourth tent is a safari-type tent manufactured by Camel. It's orange nylon with a brown bottom and orange rain-fly. It was stored in a bag at the time of its theft.

Fulenwider asked anyone with information in the incident to call him at the police station.

South Bay to accept sewer work bids

SOUTH BAY - The South Bay City Commission Tuesday night, February 15, voted to advertise for bids for cleaning and televising about 6,000 feet of the city's sewage lines.

The work isn't to exceed $4,400.

Barker, Osha and Anderson, a North Palm Beach engineering firm, recommended the city have 6,050 feet of lines cleaned at an estimated cost of 35 cents a foot, and televised at approximately 30 cents a foot, to determine where infiltration problems occur in the lines.

A study by the firm determined that 78.3 percent of the infiltration, or about 107,600 gallons a day, is located at lift station two.

The cleaning and televising would determine exactly where the leakage is occurring.

The sewage system is serviced by eight inch vitrified clay pipes.

After studying the flow in early morning hours February 9, Barker, Osha and Anderson determined that the city is losing about 137,415 gallons of sewage a day.

Okeechobee man rolls tractor

CANAL POINT - An Okeechobee man was slightly injured when the tractor trailer rig he was driving rolled over Thursday morning, February 10.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, Clayton Alfred Heasley, Sr., 29, was slightly injured when his rig rolled over at about 7:45 a.m.

He was travelling south on state road 15 when his vehicle failed to negotiate a sharp curve about one mile north of Canal Point.

Heasley was charged with careless driving.

impact on the varied interests that depend on the lake.

"It's gonna continue to be a test on our management skills to move that water out of Lake Okeechobee with the least amount of impact on the various interests that exist," said Schweigart. "Right now, we're experiencing minor difficulties."

There has been some flooding in cattle lands on the north end of the lake and some lettuce fields, he said.

As the lake level rises, seepage could also be a problem that would effect the agricultural areas directly around the lake, he said.

The high level during the dry season, although unprecedented, doesn't present the problems it would during the wet season when there would be the threat of a hurricane, according to Schweigart.

The high levels are a result of wet weather experienced in the last 30 days. The average rainfall for February is two inches, according to Schweigart. The storms that hit the area this past weekend dumped as much as six inches in some areas.

He said if the rainfall falls back to normal, he doesn't see any problem in managing the lake level.

You don't have to be a Mountie to enjoy excitement

When you get right down to it, I make my living putting words on paper, or at least punching them into a computer.

Sounds sorta mundane, doesn't it? Mundane as it may sound, however, it doesn't keep me from getting into some interesting situations.

Must of been about 5 1/2 years ago I was calmly minding my own business when a fight broke out at a city commission meeting I was covering. I won't mention the town.

These two fellows were going at it right in front of the astonished commissioners. Everybody froze for an instant except the two men who had taken the floor. In between kicks and shoves, they told each other exactly what they thought of the other. All rules of parliamentary procedure were disregarded in the fracas.

JIM JONES
Boiler Plate

About the time that one of them got the upper hand and moved in for a closer look, I jumped out of my seat and restrained him.

That's about all she wrote. The two disagreeing parties parted ways with a few more verbal pot shots thrown in for good measure.

I manage to get involved in other things, too, like during Fun Day at the Hendry County Fair Saturday, for instance.

Seems the Lions Club came up one short for its tug of war team and the showdown was drawing near with the teenagers from the high school Interact team.

I made the mistake of allowing Robert Coker to hold my camera, thereby losing my excuse for not getting into the tug.

I had enough presence of mind not to be on the front end of the rope. Bill Swartz had that honor, and also got pulled into the muddy water when we lost.

I blamed myself for the defeat because the heel broke off my shoe and I couldn't get any traction. There may be something to that old legend about Achilles' Heel.

That's not so bad though. Take last year when they were having the cow chip toss.

Not just anybody can be a good chip thrower. You have to know which chip to pick out. You need one that's not too dry and not too wet.

I figured I'd hopped across enough pastures in my time to know the difference.

Turned out they didn't want to test my throwing arm. They were looking for a catcher...

No olives for me, please...

Dear Miss Manners:

What is a person supposed to do when she's sitting with a table of strangers at lunch and accidentally tiddlywinks an olive into the coffee cup of the guest sitting next to her?

Should she attempt to retrieve it herself while she says, "Hello, my name is Goldie Ganche and I am the rightful owner of that olive," or should she let the lent take possession of it and just say, "I guess the ball's in your court."

It's not that I'm given to sitting down with strangers just any place, Miss Manners. I wouldn't want you to think that. But sometimes I go to one of those conferences or workshops. The kind where there's 300 people and only one person I know.

By and by comes lunch time and 290 of the 300 sit down in groups of ten and the other nine sit down at one table with one chair left over.

That's what happened me to last Saturday. Miss M. I was the leftover chair. I mean that's how I found myself among strangers, see. Some strangers can be real fun, you know. Just as frenzied and chatty as can be. And others aren't. I think this group had a weekend pass from the morgue. Like, after I'd made a nice howdy do, I tossed out a few sparkling comments. They fizzled out just this side of my salad plate. The one with the olive on it.

Another five minutes or five months into this cold picnic and I could tell I was going to be the victim of benign neglect. They were going to pretend I wasn't there. I tried pretending they weren't there either but it didn't work.

I would have liked to retreat. I did think of waving to a nonexistent friend in the distance and then moving to an empty table where I could carry on a more animated conversation with nobody at all. I mean, I'd have been happier if they thought I was fruit loop rather than a nonperson. Some situations you can back out of, clutching your dignity to you like the elastic was broken, but there's something final about sitting down at a table. It's like you'd already breathed germs on the dinner plate and picked your teeth with the fork tines.

Once when the waitress came over I thought she might be one of those ectoplasmic escorts you see on the TV insurance commercial — the ones that come to guide the newly-departed to a better world. Meanwhile, of course, the guy doesn't know he's dead and that's why nobody will talk to him. Lucky him, I say. But she wasn't.

Now I wouldn't want you to think these folks were bad-mannered. I mean, they didn't pass things behind my back so I didn't get my share of rolls and all. Really, they couldn't have ignored me any politer if I had been an empty chair.

But, you know, it's a funny thing, Miss M. The more people ignore you, the more you think they're watching every move you make. I think that's how the olive thing happened. I was so busy watching them to see if they were watching me that I picked up the wrong fork, spilled my water glass, dropped my napkin, and dribbled gravy down my front. Th... and my olive.

I couldn't wait until I'... to make the decision about the olive. I took it back.

Not that he couldn't have had it if he wanted it. I'm not that good on olives.

And I don't expect it to happen again. For one thing, at the next conference I'm going to brown bag it in the ladies loo. But doesn't this sort of thing happen to other people? Or was I just trying to get a little attention, do you think?

Rodriguez said charges are pending in the accident. Jones drivers license was suspended at the time the accident occurred and Rodriguez said he is waiting blood alcohol test reports.

Earlier that week, a Miami man was injured when his vehicle entered a drainage ditch on the west side of US 98.

According to Florida Highway Patrol Trooper C.E. Floyd, Ernesto Antonio Villar, 26, was travelling east on US 98 and trying to pass another eastbound vehicle when his vehicle slid on wet tar and careened into the ditch.

Villar was charged with careless driving and admitted to Everglades Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred about 13 miles east of Canal Point Thursday, February 10 at about 10 a.m.

Crime survivor supports TIPS

BELLE GLADE -- May 23, 1980 is a date Sharon Komlos will remember.

Komlos, from Boca Raton, told an attentive group of students at Glades Central High School what happened to her that day to change her life.

Speaking to the group on behalf of Crime Stoppers, Komlos urged them to get involved in the community and said she "thanks God for someone who was willing to get involved" when she needed help.

According to Komlos, she was driving at night in Ft. Lauderdale when a car pulled up beside her and she heard a "pop, kinda like a firecracker go off." Then she said she felt blood running down the side of her face and realized she couldn't see.

"I was driving my husband's new car, and all I could think about was not wrecking it," she pulled over to the side of the road and threw the car in park.

Komlos said the next thing she heard was a man saying "Oh, my God, what's happened here? Let me get you to a hospital."

According to Komlos, the man put her in his car and drove for a while before telling her they were at the hospital. He asked if she could walk in because there had been a bad accident and there were no stretchers available.

She was taken into a room and laid on a bed. The man then almost smothered her with a pillow, raped her and stabbed her in the chest.

The next morning, naked and bloodied from head to foot, Komlos escaped the apartment after the man had left and stood screaming outside. A man stopped his van, came up to her and said almost the exact words as her attacker.

This man did take her to a hospital where it took several hours of surgery to repair the damage done by the bullet and the stab wound on her chest. She remains blind due to the gunshot wound. Her attacker was caught and tried and is now serving 104 years in jail in Raiford, Florida.

Komlos said that over 57,000 severe crimes were committed in Palm Beach County alone last year.

Dan Crist of the Belle Glade Police Department showed the group some of the Crime Stopper segments shown Wednesday nights on Channel 12 and told the students that Crime Stoppers was started in Palm Beach County in 1981.

"We're proud of Crime Stoppers and it has worked very well," Crist said. "If you think you know anything about a serious crime, even if it seems like a minor thing, call Crime Stoppers collect in Belle Glade, at 689-TIPS."

He added that callers could be eligible for a reward of up to $1000.

Golf membership plans to be examined

BELLE GLADE — Belle Glade's City Attorney and the golf professional at the Belle Glade Country Club were supposed to work out a proposal to solve a problem arising from the club's family membership plan.

According to John Wright, the problem with the five families with club memberships. He told the commission that the problem is a result of his misunderstanding of a city ordinance on the membership plan.

According to Wright, the ordinance permits families to club memberships to carry dependent children up to 18 years old on their memberships. He said he had been permitted to include family memberships to include students over the age limit who were still dependent and attending college.

John E. Baker, the city attorney said the ordinance didn't permit Wright to make that type of exception because it was discriminatory against children over 18 who didn't attend college.

"Just because they're going to college doesn't mean they should be eligible for special treatment," he said.

Free program set

The American Lung Association of Southeast Florida will hold a free program for adults with respiratory problems Thursday, February 24, 10:30 a.m. at the Belle Glade Library Conference Room, 530 S. Main St., Belle Glade.

Dave Baker from the Lung Association will make a presentation on "Pulmonary Rehabilitation".

Anyone interested in learning about respiratory problems may attend.

The program is sponsored by the American Lung Association of Southeast Florida and is funded through Christmas Seal Donations.

Card of thanks

The family of Paul Collier wishes to extend our heartfelt thanks for all the kindness shown us following the death of our beloved husband, father, and grandfather.

There was an abundance of food, a multitude of comforting cards, many arrangements of beautiful flowers, and finally all of you who came by to personally extend your condolences. Having so many people who care is a truly wonderful part of living in the Glades.

Thanks again to each and every one of you who helped make our grief a little easier to bear.

Sincerely,
Mildred Collier

"Not bad for a little country bank"

Of the 14,000 commercial banks in America, Bank of Pahokee is one of the top 100 STRONGEST*

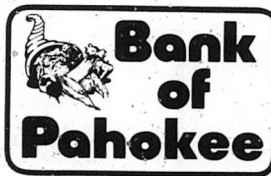

The Bank of Pahokee is proud to be included in the prestigious list of 100 strongest commercial banks in the United States. A national survey conducted by the respected Holt Investment Advisory* compiled from quarterly financial reports to the Federal Reserve System and required by the U.S. Government listed the Bank of Pahokee as 77th on the list of 100 strongest of the nation's 14,000 commercial banks.

The Bank of Pahokee is proud of this uncommon accomplishment. We owe our success to the confidence, support and loyalty of our customers. While the money center bankers have been giving away everything but the key to the front door to attract customers, we've kept our quiet country heritage alive providing our customers with security and common sense banking even in the most uncertain economic times.

We've brought our customers the most needed Full Service Banking innovations including The Connexion™ 24-Hour Banking at convenient locations, N.O.W. Accounts, Money Market Insured Deposits and Certificates of Deposit. But our first consideration is our service and our customers' trust. That's not a bad record for any bank, large or small, city or country.
